Comments: Hello and good day!

As a husband, father, son, brother, and friend I can safely say that my love of the outdoors helped to shape me. That includes across just about any outside wilderness activity or sport you can imagine. But especially, especially my love of climbing. On that note I've climbed for over 40 years and practiced many disciplines but one of my favorite is first ascents. On that note, I've either directly relied upon fixed anchors or placed them (replaced them) for others to rely on. I'm here to please encourage you to consider the stance and the fact that without the ability to place or replace fixed anchors, we are introducing more risk or making a passion that I love, almost impossible.

Thanks,
