Comments: Climbing outdoors is an activity that has brought me and my wife many amazing experiences. Being able to climb safely on fixed protective gear is what allowed us to become comfortable with this wonderful sport. Without the fixed gear, that has been meticulously installed by dedicated volunteers, we may never have been able to get out of the climbing gym to begin enjoying our national parks.

Now we have a son who has just begun climbing. This summer will be the first summer that we'll be taking him to climb outdoors in a national park. We're all very excited and can't wait to pass this passion on to our next generation.
