Comments: Please do not prohibit bolts on public land. My husband and I base our travel plans on where to climb. We have spent thousands of dollars across the Western states, the southeast and New England exploring beautiful natural spaces, going out to eat and staying at campgrounds and hotels. If bolts are prohibited, our tourist money will be spent in Mexico, Asia and Europe instead of the USA. We even chose to live in California partially because the access to climbing and hiking is so strong.
