

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 1/17/2024 10:13:57 PM

First name: Nash

Last name: Brown

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Being one who has climbed a lot in wilderness areas it would make no sense for a ban of fixed hardware. It is an essential part for climbing and makes the sport safer as a whole. Without fixed hardware rescue becomes much harder as well in certain situations. If this proposal passes it will also hinder the development of climbing in national forest, and take away a legacy of climbing in wilderness. It would also be a major attack on the history and culture of climbing.