Comments: I am writing to ask you to go further in the protection of our forests. Protecting trees is the most natural and economically sensible way we have to mitigate climate disasters. It is imperative that you fully and permanently protect all old-growth forests from any kind of logging, burning, or other management.

Also important is that you protect, from logging and other intensive management, all intact mature forests that can become future old-growth.

Do this for our future generations! Their life depends on what we do now!!
