Comments: After climbing for more than 20 years the use of bolts is incredibly important. The safety of climbers increases as bolts are properly placed and maintained. The sport of climbing encourages healthy outdoor activity and is enjoyed by people who are environmentally conscious and good stewards of the trails, rock, and outdoors in general. My hope would be that the sport of climbing is embraced and bolts can continue to be maintained and placed for years to come. Often times restricting something for a perceived benefit has other unintended consequences. I believe working with the climbing community to find an amicable solution for all is truly best for everyone.
