Comments: I have leased a cabin on Kupreanof Island since 1983, and have spent thousands of dollars to maintain that cabin, while continuing to honor the Forest Service policy of respecting and protecting our site from any impact on the beautiful area surrounding our cabin. True to the Alaskan spirit of comradery, we have, through the years, been amenable to temporary use of the cabin for shelter by rangers, game wardens, and local hunters and fishermen, needing a dry place, or for safety, when unexpectedly hit by bad weather. While I plan to remain the lessee for years to come, with the proposed revision in place to the existing policies, I very much appreciate the opportunity to transfer ownership of that lease to my son, so that he can continue the stewardship of protecting the unique beauty of the cabin's Kupreanof Island location, as my family has for forty years, while enjoying the true Alaskan spirit he, too, has come to value.
