Comments: I have been a long time supporter of the NFS and have many fond memories of camping and learning about the leave no trace principles and how to preserve our nation lands. Climbing, something that's new to my life in the past 5 years has brought this to a new level for me. Though I don't inherently dislike FSM 2355 I think it needs the proper care and research put into it that it deserves. Climbing areas have never been a one size fits all subject matter and that still applies here. Look at this again and your stakeholders, I think you'll find that the people your primary affecting here are trying to be your ally and have been voluntarily working to support the NFS as long or longer than the organization itself.
