Comments: Hello,

I am a rock climber, have climbed various locations in Southern California and in Yosemite. I do not believe there is a need to permanently attach anchors to rock walls to enjoy a climb. Actually i like to decide on my own where i place an anchor. Rock climbing is mentally challenging, you have to think about your next move and that is what i like about it, if everything is already laid out for you it takes the fun out of a climb.

Please do not attach anchors to rock walls, it is unnatural.

Thank you
