When I graduated college, my plan was to move to a city to pursue a career. While I was home, researching apartments for my move, I went up Tinton road and wandered around until I found a perfect spot to read a book. I had just returned from spending a month in San Diego, being there I didn't notice how noisy it actually was. The peace I found while reading my book helped me realize Spearfish is my home and I never want to leave. I am now a successful business owner with children growing up in this community. Do not take this peace away from the people who truly love this place.
