Comments: This proposal would dismantle a rich history of climbing in wilderness while simultaneously making it more danger and forcing individual to risk their lives in unnecessary ways. Instead you'll end up with rats nests of tat and people risking their lives on bolts that need replacement. Inevitably this will cost tax payers money to solve a non-existent issue.

Bolts do not have any meaningful impact on the landscape or physical environment. Please focus energy on real issues like horses destroying trails and bringing invasive species.
