Comments: Bolts and permanent anchors are vital to enjoyment to wilderness areas by the general public who own those lands. If you eliminate those installations it will endanger people who have every right to be out on their lands. The elimination of those types of anchors will reserve the use of wilderness areas to the powerful lobbies of horseback riders and hikers, and keep climbers and canyoneers out of many places that we have enjoyed and have the right to use for years.

Allow bolted anchors and in situ slings off of natural anchors in canyons and on climbing cliffs.
