

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 1/25/2024 7:32:29 PM

First name: Colin

Last name: Brown

Organization:

Title:

Comments: I am a 40-year-old, avid climber. I believe that's taking down fix bolted routes and not allowing bolted routes in the future would be a large mistake. Bolted rats are both safe and sustainable way to climb. People will potentially just use traditional gear decline, which has a potential to damage Climbing routes as well as brings up safety issues with people who are not trained on this equipment. Removing bolted routes from existing rock faces would both be costly and difficult not impossible to enforce. Keep America's Climbing legacy alive.