Comments: I am a climber and request that you do not prohibit bolts. Climbing has brought me so much joy and opportunity to enjoy friends, nature and adventure in a life changing way. You would be destroying the sport of the very people who you are preserving the wilderness for by doing this.

Restricting the establishment of new routes to "existing climbing opportunities" on non-Wilderness lands is unenforceable and will create confusion amongst land managers and climbers. Non-Wilderness climbing management policy should maintain opportunities for new anchors unless and until analyses determine climbing should be restricted to protect cultural and natural resources.
