Comments: Please have an emphasis on improving motorized access. The forest is big and dirt forest roads not only allow access for the public to enjoy the most scenic parts but also help protect from wildfire by not only providing fire breaks but also allowing fire crews to not only get in, but also get out. They won't be sent in without a safe way out should the fire pattern change due to wind. The forest service policies have been under scrutiny for causing wildfires to get out of control. Having open roads and enough of them can go a longer way to stop large fires and make the general public happy if not the environmentalists that are often against roads and add to the problems in the forest.
