Comments: Don't do this. Doesn't sound like any of you have climbing experience or understand the significance of this decision for our community and the environment. Yes we leave a trace, so does everyone when you enter the wilderness. These anchors and climbs and experiences help us appreciate and connect to our earth. Making us care more and want to help wilderness areas. We talk about it within our communities and help educate people on why these places need to be sustained. You will be hurting more than helping with this bill.
