Comments: Hey, I've heard about the ban on bolts for rock climbing in the US. I just have to say that as a representative of climbing as part of the community for over a decade now and a younger climber with more potential, I think this needs to stop. Rock climbing is a serious sport and needs to use bolts for protection in certain areas and not using them is just insane. I don't have much else to say but I do think that this needs to stop and for the old, young, strong, weak, dedicated, or new climbers this makes a big difference and change is needed. Thanks a lot for your time, I hope my comment is taken into consideration.
