Comments: I love to climb and when a new route is being established it can be such an amazing accomplishment. With restricting the establishment of new routes this majorly impacts the growth of climbing. I have not been able to establish a new route in my climbing experience, but I aspire to one day accomplish that goal. It is important that we have anchors and bolts to safely pursue those dreams and share it with others. I know I have been the beneficiary of those before me who have set and maintained these routes.
