Comments: In June of 2020, I nearly died in a climbing accident at a park that did not allow bolts. If there had been bolted anchors there, I would not have had this accident. I'm left with a permanent, life altering disability that causes me pain every day. Banning bolt anchors won't do anything but increase deaths and near death accidents, and contribute to more people having life altering disabilities from something that is a comparably small sacrifice. I wouldn't wish my accident on my worst enemy, and the ability to add bolts will additionally prevent these types of accidents.
