

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 1/29/2024 6:54:28 PM

First name: Zach

Last name: Pesch

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Hi,

Climate change is a massive hurdle to the survival of the human species. We need to fight it on all fronts. Which means leaving intact old-growth forests. They store a massive amount of carbon. There are many many endangered and threatened species that use the old-growth in the pnw. I'm a certified wildlife biologist with TWS with a M.S. in Sustainable Natural Resource Management. There's no business on a dead planet.