Comments: Climbing in the outdoors is a huge passion of mine. I believe that bolts on natural rock formations pose no negative effect on people's experience in the national parks and forests other than a safe access to rock climbing. I have 3 children that love to climb! Without these bolts we would have less safe routes to experience in our local Los padres national forest. Rick climbing is beneficial to the youth in so many ways. It promotes a respect for natural places as well as physical exercise and helps build confidence and problem solving. My family benefits from the use of bolted anchors in our natural places and removing them would affect our experiences in these places. PLEASE LEAVE CLIMBING BOLTS ALONE!
