Comments: Please allow climbing anchors! I don't know of another group of environmentally friendly minded individuals than climbers. They will advocate for the protection of nature and are generally very proud to support National Parks. You would be alienating one of the best groups of people by taking down or not allowing fixed anchors for climbing. Additionally it would be less safe and pose inherent risk to younger/newer climbers still learning to climb if we took them down or stopped allowing them. These anchors are so small they don't ruin the view of nature and if anything enhance people's appreciation of what you can do in nature. Thank you.
