Comments: Thanks to the Forest Service for planning to protect old growth forests. It is essential that we protect forests that protect and nourish forest life and give calm to humans. They also provide us with a proven way to reduce carbon dioxide in our environment and add oxygen to our air. They also remove many unwanted toxins in the air and the soil. Thanks for planning to protect our old growth forests. We have so few left and forests that are regularly timbered are just ugly, do not store as much carbon dioxide, and do not give us the joy of God's creations like an old growth forest does. Thanks again, continue the good work. Mary Clark
