Comments: We climbers love the environment and want to be outside enjoying the outdoors. As a group we tend to be aware of cleaning up after ourselves and being responsible outdoors. Bolts are hard to find even when you know where to look for them, they are definitely not an eye sore or even noticeable if you are standing more than 20 feet back from a wall. Please do not take away this invaluable source of exercise, recreation, connection, and outdoor experience. This means so much to so many of us.
