Comments: I strongly oppose the classification that fixed anchors are prohibited installations under the Wilderness Act and believe that any such language should be omitted from the final guidance. This classification would drastically effect my own, as well as many other climbers I personally know who regularly visit climbing destinations in the Wasatch mountains of Utah, such as Big and Little Cottonwood Canyons. I speak out that fixed anchors should not be classied as prohibited "installations" under the Wilderness Act. Rather, I urge the federal agencies to further working partnerships to steward our natural landscapes instead of the inverse of this new policy directive.
