Comments: While I have been climbing for just over two years, I am still a very under average climber. The sport is my passion, and the rock climbing community feels like my family away from home. These anchors are in necessity for someone like my skill level, if I ever wanna have the opportunity to continue to climb some of the greatest rock in America, such as the new river Gorge in West Virginia, Yosemite, national park, and Joshua tree. I strongly urge you to strike down this ban and to let the sport continue on its natural development.
