Comments: This bill will not only affect the recreation activity of those who are currently using it, but I don't think that the intention behind allowing veterans to have access to it is authentic. I think that if veterans were prioritized, then there would be other amenities for them, including the current access to the space, but having actual resources for veterans that they need in terms of mental health, financial support that they already have, therapy, rehab, no income, housing... Etc.

There are regulations that could be made so that recreation is done responsibly, but elimination is not the path. This is a representation of a lack of the ability to see other sides, and having compromise for the sake of the greater good.

I'm not saying there are zero actions that should be taken to regulate access to these areas in more responsible way, but elimination from the current access is not going to solve the problem and will only further damage those areas that have no restrictions due to overuse. The issue is not the issue is Lack of education and regulatory guidance.
