Comments: I fully support the proposed Morrison and Power House trail projects. I visit the ANF often throughout the year, and feel these additions will have a wonderful impact on the recreational options and the surrounding communities. Well thought out and sustainably designed trails are the best "ambassadors" for our natural world. The best way to introduce and encourage individuals to care for Nature, is to get them out in it. These and other recent trail additions have exposed a significant number of people into respecting and cherishing our natural resources. I could be wrong, but these areas have been open to logging and drilling for a number of decades. The skid and service roads may provide the adventurous explorer a way to experience more of the ANF. These "industrial corridors are not what the new or practiced outdoor enthusiast is likely looking for. It is therefore a reasonable and rational goal to add a few more miles of recreational trails to enhance the limited options for multi-user experiences.

I look forward to seeing the project move forward.
