Comments: Please consider not banning this. I started climbing about a year ago and it has been my dream to eventually be confident enough in my abilities to climb wonderful outdoor climbing spots. Not only will it make my dream unsafe, nearly impossible, but the dreams of all my fellow climbers in the community. I would love the opportunity to climb safely, considering this has been the best year of my life thanks to my new hobby, climbing. I love the community, the physical aspect, and most of all, the dream of being in nature while doing it. I hope this finds you well,
