Comments: I've lived in Colorado my whole life. My fellow climbing peers are the most careful and responsible stewards of our wild spaces that I know. Fixed anchors allow us to continue being caretakers of the rocks that we cherish so much. Taking away our right to these practices goes against 60+ years of climbing history in which climbers have advocated for the care wilderness spaces. I want my peers to be able to safely use these anchors in order to learn sustainable climbing practices. Accessibility in climbing is directly related to accessibility to public lands, and fixed anchors are a crucial part of keeping climbing accessible.
