Comments: I, Allen Fincher, a supporter from Austin, TX, firmly believe that restricting the establishment of new routes to "existing climbing opportunities" on non-Wilderness lands is an unenforceable solution. I believe that climbers should have the freedom to explore and establish new routes in USFS areas, as long as it aligns with responsible climbing practices and environmental stewardship. I advocate for a balanced approach that respects both the preservation of natural resources and the accessibility of climbing opportunities in USFS areas.
