Comments: Please continue to allow fixed anchors in wilderness areas and allow for their use generally.

Failing to do so will result in death and misadventure for countless climbers who rely on this to be safe as they recreate.

These areas are largely by definition difficult to access, and allowing anchors will not lead to proliferation of unnatural objects in the wilderness-the price of admission if just to high.

Also there is no way the current body of rangers and park service employees will have an actual ability to effectively police and remove anchors. The manpower, skills, and time required to do so is beyond estimate.
