Comments: To Whom It may Concern;

I am writing to express my concern with the Bolt Prohibition. I would like to add a few comments regarding the safety concerns and additional possible implications of this measure.

Restricting the establishment of new routes to "existing climbing opportunities" on non-Wilderness lands is unenforceable and will create confusion amongst land managers and climbers. Non-Wilderness climbing management policy should maintain opportunities for new anchors unless and until analyses determine climbing should be restricted to protect cultural and natural resources.
