Comments: Please save our old-growth mature trees. They are significant value, a draw for recreation of humans, help clean and improve the air we breathe, but also a home to wildlife. We have a DUTY to safeguard them and pass them on to the next generations.

Particular species will be lost, such as our iconic California Condors, who only nest in tall trees.

Please please please save our trees.

I am a hiker and appreciate the feeling of being in the woods, which is different than being in the scrublands, the chapparal.

There was a recent article about the financial value of greenspace, parkland and trees in London, perhaps in The Guardian.
