Comments: The climbing community is an absolute asset to wilderness and wildlife as they bring necessary revenue while also protecting and leaving no trace apart from the semi-permanent bolts and anchors that provide safety and clarity for all. Changing this policy will lead to confusion and ultimately fewer climbers using the parks. The climbing community takes pride in supporting the environment and maintains the same principals as the USFS, so I encourage you to keep policies the same, up until a full analysis can be done that takes into account safety and wellness of all communities, as well as the net positive that climbers bring. Thank you!
