Comments: I value old growth forests tremendously. These old trees are not just beautiful but also provide an immense amount of integrity to the eco system. Their roots and branches provide more than young trees can- they are mother trees. They raise the next Forest. Leave these forests and its inhabitants alone and protect them instead of cutting them down. We have destroyed so so much and we humans are the most destructive species on earth. Yet, we can not store carbon, clean the air or provide shade. We need those trees for our future. Science supports protection for those trees
