Comments: Hello, I am not well versed in the in and outs of this issue, but want to share my thoughts on this subject as I understand it.

My family, friends, and acquaintances love the sport of climbing. Often, we are in national forest land because we know that it is safe, accessible, and that the climbing community has spent time and money to make sure that it will remain so.

I humbly ask that this simple pleasure not be removed from the climbing community. Both I, and generations after will be grateful.
