Comments: The Wilderness Act prohibits installations and structures like permanent fixed climbing anchors in order to protect the areas' wild character. Fixed climbing anchors must not be allowed in Wilderness. These prohibitions cannot be overcome by a desire to facilitate or enhance a particular form of recreation, and the narrow administrative exception for installations does not extend to the general public seeking to create developed recreational activities in Wilderness. For climbers seeking developed climbing opportunities, there are ample permanently bolted climbs outside of Wilderness. Wilderness is an endangered landscape with less than 3 percent of land in the lower 48 protected as Wilderness, and it is under threat.

Further, specific proposals for permanent fixed anchor installations in Wilderness must be subjected to public notice and an opportunity for public comment pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act.

Thank you for considering my comments.
