Comments: To Whom It May Concern:

From where I stand, the MRA process is not going to be effective or efficient. So while climbing may need more management, I don't believe the proposed language is appropriate.

This will effectively soft ban all fixed anchors and fixed anchor maintenance by way of red tape. Ground-up exploration (first ascents starting at the ground) will be halted and likely limited by the MRA process.

I'd like to see language that guarantees a response by the governing office in a certain time frame (90 days).

Best regards,

Colin
