Comments: Please don't destroy the old trees/forests. Especially now that climate changes are at an all time high, cutting down trees we need to purify the air with the chlorophyll that all greenery has would only hurt the environment and planet. There must be a way to preserve and maintain these old trees and forests that continues to keep the ecosystems in sync with the environmental benefits humanity gains from maintaining the natural environment as opposed to destroying and replacing the original majestic transcendence of the old forests and our environmental obligations to preserve them could only benefit all life on earth. Please set an example of how to maintain and preserve these precious old forests that are just as important today as when they were first seeded into the earth. We need every last tree! Thank you for reading my opinion and heartfelt support for this matter.
