Comments: Hello,

I am writing in support of the American Alpine Club comments submitted about this issue. I think it is particularly important that federal agencies utilize advisory committees to equitably address the needs of all parties including conservation groups, recreational groups, and federal agencies; this is by the people for the people.

Generally, I would ask that you carefully review the thoughtful responses by organizations and individuals that this proposed recommendation would affect. Please consider the safety mechanisms and reasonable use that have long been permitted by the Wilderness Act and work to draw a recommendation that is thoughtful, fundable, and sustainable (by users and federal agencies).

As an individual and climber from Kentucky now residing in Colorado, I have spent time in recreational and wilderness areas of all kinds and have seen firsthand how humans can impact the wilderness. I believe that we can both protect people and wild spaces alike with reasonable and manageable guidelines.

Sincerely,

?Ashlee Milanich
