Comments: Hello. I don't totally understand the issues at play here. There is a great deal of conversation expressing many different takes and opinions. I don't know what is true or how to read the legal speak of the proposal.

I do love climbing. I love that it brings me close to nature. It allows me to experience the beautiful natural world. It allows me to connect with something greater and beyond my own self. I love that I and others who feel similarly about climbing can do so safely. I worry that removing and or barring anchors and bolts will make climbing much more dangerous and less accessible. I am going to climb even with the potential for elevated danger. I love climbing and I love our wilderness. Please allow climbers to keep climbing.

As a community ethics is a central focus. Generally speaking, climbers are socially conscious and stewards to our lands. Please allow us to keep climbing safely.
