Comments: I want to comment that this is a great direction for old growth trees and in dealing with climate change. As an average citizen concerned about the destruction of our planet from so many directions that we need to address these issues. I am extremely pleased that it will address concerns of indigenous/native peoples. I am not an expert on all the details and plans that were presented and I am hopeful that it is developed with the best interest in our planet, the environment and climate change issues and is presented as a start in addressing our fragile future on this planet.
