Comments: It seems obvious to many that the update to the forest plan must put wild lands, water, wildlife before exploitive industry. Science supports this. Philosophy supports this. Ethics supports this.

A poem by the American poet, W.S.Merwin, "The Last One" recognized the propensity of humans to "be everywhere because / why not. / Everywhere was theirs because they thought so."

Whole ecosystems have collapsed. What percentage of intact habitat remains? Act with integrity to preserve instead of target lands and the great trees.
