Comments: I took a horseback packing trip thru the Bob Marshall a few years ago . While our outfitter did a nice job I wasn't thrilled about them burning plastics in our trash . I don't think there's a need for more outfitters . I believe most are probably very good and follow the rules .The more you get in there the more the competition and the more they're going to cut corners . It's their bread and butter and hope they respect the land and rules...but there's always that bad apple .
