

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 2/1/2024 6:58:10 PM

First name: Nancy

Last name: Curtis

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Recent research has proven the importance to forest ecosystem health of mature trees (see Suzanne Simard "Finding the Mother Tree"). Old-growth also absorbs more carbon and emits more oxygen simply due to the greater area of carbon-absorbing growth. There are so few of these stands of old-growth left, and they are wondrous. A legacy we need to preserve.