Comments: TREES, especially the old growth beings:

Make the very air we breathe and the soil that feeds us.

They give us the bones of our house, bed, table, chair, and telephone pole.

Trees provide shade, beauty, and heat in time of need.

They are our cradle - and finally our coffin.

We, as the Lord's caretakers of this- our only planet- must Respect, admire, PROTECT, and plant more of them!

Let US not continue to destroy what we truly rely on for life, and still do not know so much about, like how they communicate with one another to sustain themselves, and by extension we humans.
