Comments: I am so pleased that a serious initiative is being proposed to preserve what remains of old-growth forests. These forests once dominated the North America continent and were the base for a vibrant and thriving ecosystem until Europeans ascended upon the land with the attitude that land was to be conquered. I believe that if we can act to preserve and I hope nurture these forests that they will once again become healthy.

Hopefully, this initiative can be a start to humans protecting and nurturing nature rather than destroying it. This can be a start to rewilding, promoting wild spaces and wild passages for migration. Yes, protect the old growth forests and may this be the beginning to a larger effort. Thank you!
