Comments: There are too few true wilderness spaces left in this country. Please use your power to protect this one. While outfitters should certainly be able to renew their permits, the process should be open to the public and the environmental impact assessed. Categorical Exclusions should not be permitted and permit reauthorizations should be made public - including permitted vs actual use days, annual inspections, public complaints and Campsite Management Plans.

This land belongs to all of us and we all must join forces to protect it.
