Comments: I love to ride bikes and snowmobiles, I lived 17 years in Utah, 16 years in Alaska and 17 years in WA. Closing areas for snowmobiling is not going to do anything but make the areas loose out on tax revenue from visitors leaving to other areas.
Snowmobiling, skiing, snowboarding etc. do not impact wilderness areas. I used to work on drilling in wildlife conservation areas in Alaska, we would go out on ice roads and head back before the thaw, nobody could ever go out to these areas and imagine e there was a drilling operation there all winter.
If you want to save the forest, stop building roads to access it.

Thank you.
